IN NEW QUARTERS.

Brief Mention of E. Burkhardt's New and Elegant Furniture Emporium—A New Stock of Goods.

Those friends of E. Burkhardt, the well known furniture dealer, that have called on him within the past week in his new and mammoth furniture edifice, located at No. 115 Canal street, never fail to speak in terms of a most commendable nature regarding the handsome edifice and the huge stock of novelties seen on each floor.

Mr. Burkhardt is deserving of all the words of praise showered on him and the enterprise he has shown and rapid progress he has made, forms a splendid example.

A representative of The Herald yesterday visited the new structure and made a brief tour through the fine large floors.

The building is of pressed brick, five floors and basement and is 20x125 feet in diameter. It is lighted with electricity, has one of Hall's latest improved elevators and is thoroughly complete in every respect.

Mr. Burkhardt has only been in his new quarters about a week and has hardly gotten all his stock arranged as desired, but he is ready for business and the reception of his friends.

Mr. Burkhardt thought it fitting to go into the new building with a full and complete line of new and elegant goods, and as a consequence each one of the floors occupied is stocked with rich and elegant novelties that anyone would enjoy feasting their eyes on. The fifth floor is devoted to chairs and tables, and children's goods, of which a very large assortment is on exhibition. On the fourth floor are to be found the bedroom suits, the mattress departments, sitting room and kitchen furniture. The upholstered goods are to be found on the third floor in large quantities and assorted varieties.

Mr. Burkhardt enjoys one advantage that few retail furniture dealers can boast of and that is the direct connection he has from his furniture house to the waterworks of the New England Furniture Co., which are located in the rear of Mr. Burkhardt's building. Only the bridge connects the two and without any trouble a patron in a short space of time is conducted into a warehouse where one of the largest and most elegant displays of bedroom furniture to be found in the city is exhibited. On the first floor a choice line of fancy goods, rockers, sideboards, etc., are shown. In making arrangements for the coming fall trade Mr. Burkhardt selected a larger, more complete and by far a better grade of goods than he has ever exhibited before. He bought closely and is therefore prepared to offer equally as fine bargains as has heretofore prevailed. The stock shown is really a meritorious one and worthy second notice. One visiting this furniture emporium now would be surprised at the magnitude of the display and its excellence.

Mr. Burkhardt extends to his friends, his patrons and the public in general a cordial invitation to visit him in his new quarters, at 115 Canal street.

Jim Travis is on deck with a splendid line of new and second hand stoves. He is making some big offers.

TONS OF MEAT SOLD.

The Western Beef & Provision Co.'s Great Meat Sale—An Enormous Crowd.

The child, the boy, the man and the young man, the woman and the man, yes, even people aged in years and hair streaked with gray, were all there, each eager to secure their share of the splendid bargains offered in meat by the Western Beef & Provision company, Canal street, yesterday. All day long the market was filled with a throng of eager buyers, and all day long the corps of assistants were busy serving their patrons. It is safe to say that few such sales of meat at retail has taken place in this city. Tons upon tons of meat were sold, and hundreds upon hundreds of purchasers were made more than happy over their purchases.

The Western Beef & Provision company have met such a remarkable success with this sale that the firm has decided to continue it indefinitely. A saving of from 15 to 20 per cent on all fresh and cured meats, and lard is made an item well worth a secondary thought.

Something We All Enjoy.

No meal is complete unless fish or game of some sort is included in the bill. A toothsome bass or whitefish or a nicely taked bluefish forms a dish fit to set before a king. Tastes vary, and while some people would heartily enjoy something like the above, others would prefer a lobster or a soft-shelled crab. Not only does one like or dislike and hence, even other fish are appreciated. Then after meat has been served, what is nicer than a dish of some choice game? Detenthaler, No. 117 Monroe street, always has in stock a fresh lot of game, fish, etc., and in making your selection of meats, etc., for a meal, it will pay the purchaser to give Detenthaler a call.

SODID NICKEL from top to bottom. NEW PRICE, only $11.95 each. Black Enameled, $10.80. Every stove with casters and brass oil tanks, which never rust or leak.

A BEAUTY WORTH TWICE THE MONEY!

It has a greater radiating surface and the largest hot air circulation, making it a stronger heater with the same amount of fuel. It is the only oil stove on the market that can be operated with entire freedom from smoke or odor. It has a water reservoir in the burner, producing a constant evaporation, supplying the flame with oxygen, aiding combustion and giving a soft, mild and healthful atmosphere in the room. This valuable and important feature cannot be overestimated. It is by far the best made. The oil tank, water reservoir, burner, wick tube, wick-lifting device and flame deflector are entirely of brass, and because of its resistance to rust, greatly increasing the durability of the stove. It is the most convenient. A drop door mica frame affords easy access to the burner for lighting without tipping back the upper part of the stove. Every stove is mounted on casters, without extra charge. The filling device is the safest and simplest in use. The location of the oil tank is such that the cold air passes entirely around it, always keeping the oil cool and rendering it impossible to create an explosion. It is the handsomest.
